VIA FEDERAL EXPRESS

The Honorable Thomas J. Vilsack Secretary of Agriculture U.S. Department of Agriculture 1400 Independence Ave., S.W. Washington, DC 20250

Re: Response to the New Mexico Farm and Livestock Bureau's May 10, 2013 Letter

Dear Secretary Vilsack:

I write on behalf of Animal Protection of New Mexico, Front Range Equine Rescue, and the American Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and others, in response to the New Mexico Farm and Livestock Bureau's May 10, 2013 letter, in order to clarify and to correct a few of the numerous inaccuracies offered in support of horse slaughter.

First, contrary to what the Bureau claims, Valley Meat has not "complied with all regulations" and is not free of all obstacles except "political pressure." Rather, there are a series of regulatory failures, legal concerns, as well as other obstacles and instances of noncompliance that should prevent Valley Meat from slaughtering horses for human consumption:

- Valley Meat lacks a state groundwater discharge permit, without which it cannot operate as a slaughter facility. N.M.A.C. § 20.6.2.3104. Though the New Mexico Environment Department website lists Valley Meat's discharge permit is "active," this listing is incorrect, according to attorneys with the Department. Valley Meat cannot legally operate a horse slaughter facility until it obtains a discharge permit, and that permit will be subject to review and revision if there is substantial public concern about the facility.
- Serious questions exist as to whether Valley Meat needs a federal stormwater discharge permit to operate a horse slaughter facility. Pursuant to Section 402 of the Clean Water Act

CHICAGO | WASHINGTON | NEW YORK | LAKE FOREST | ATLANTA | SAN FRANCISCO | ANN ARBOR | CHARLOTTE

For ten years after Ricardo De Los Santos took over Valley Meat, the company repeatedly failed to comply with the rules and conditions of its discharge permit, failing to submit monitoring reports, pumping manifests, groundwater sampling reports, wastewater sampling reports, and reports on the volume of wastewater discharge, and failed to protect the surrounding land by closing out its existing clay and manure lined lagoon. Further, in 2009, Valley Meat simply let its discharge permit expire and kept operating its cow slaughter facility in violation of New Mexico law.

("CWA"), 33 U.S.C. § 1342, and EPA regulations, Valley Meat must obtain a Multi Sector General Permit for Stormwater Discharges Associated with Industrial Activity ("General Permit") or must at least submit an application for conditional exclusion from the General Permit before operating as a slaughter facility.<sup>2</sup>,

- As noted in the FRER and HSUS letter of April 16, 2013, before Valley Meat can begin operations, USDA must comply with Section 7 of the Endangered Species Act ("ESA").<sup>3</sup>
  Any grant of inspection of operation before then would trigger legal action under the ESA.
- As explained in FRER's letter of April 22, 2013, Mr. De Los Santos committed two federal felonies in the past year, in direct connection with his attempt to begin slaughtering horses, when he submitted materially false applications for inspection to FSIS. Mr. De Los Santos is subject to prosecution for his felonious actions.
- As also documented in the April 22, 2013 letter, Valley Meat has a long history of environmental and humane handling violations, which call into question its fitness to operate as a horse slaughter facility.
- The initiation of horse slaughter in New Mexico or anywhere needs to be carefully reexamined in light of this month's report by the USDA Office of Inspector General's May 9, 2013 report, addressing FSIS Inspection and Enforcement Activities at Swine Slaughter Plants. According to the report, FSIS's enforcement policies "do not deter swine slaughter plants from becoming repeat violators" of federal law. Consequently, "plants have repeatedly violated the same regulations with little or no consequence," which has resulted in "reduced assurance of FSIS inspectors effectively identifying pork that should not enter the food supply." Notably, pigs in slaughterhouses are far more manageable, as a practical matter, than horses, given the unique nature and temperament of most horses. It is doubtful that FSIS can ensure humane handling of equines animals whose unique temperament makes humane slaughter essentially impossible – when it cannot ensure humane handling of swine, the number one most commonly killed mammal for food.

&lt;sup>2</sup> In violation of the CWA, Valley Meat has violated and continues to violate the terms of the General Permit. Since Valley Meat began operating as a cattle slaughterhouse, Valley Meat has never submitted a Notice of Intent (NOI) to enroll in the General Permit, nor has Valley Meat submitted an application for conditional exclusion from the General Permit for "no exposure" of industrial activities and materials to storm water.

- It is even more doubtful that FSIS can ensure humane handling of equines at Valley Meat, in light of Valley Meat's status as a repeat humane handling offender of cows, which are more docile than equines.
- Finally, USDA has not ruled on FRER and HSUS's Petition To Create Rules and Regulations Governing the Sale, Transport and Processing of Horses and Horse Meat Intended for Human Consumption, which raises serious questions as to the fitness of horse meat from American horses.

Second, the "unwanted horse issue" discussion in the Bureau's letter presents a self-serving characterization of the problems. Certainly the destruction of allegedly unwanted animals is not the purpose of federal meat and slaughter inspection – but it is also not necessary, not humane, and not the main alternative route for these horses. As explained in the documents attached as Exhibit A:

- USDA determined that 92.3% of horses sent to slaughter are in good condition, so the vast majority of American horses sent to slaughter would be able to live productive lives if given the opportunity. These horses could be sold, donated, or otherwise rehomed; however, slaughter buyers regularly attend and outbid legitimate horse owners and rescues at auctions.
- Using USDA's own findings, when horse slaughter is prohibited, less than 1% of the entire horse population may require the help of rescues or euthanasia.
- There are numerous viable alternatives to horse slaughter, both in New Mexico and across the country. Valley Meat's owner has also indicated that he will be receiving horses from out of state, and the horses trucked to auctions around the country are often trucked for extended periods to get to the auctions. As demonstrated by the attached documents, there are significant support systems already in place for any horses (and horse owners) that need assistance, including:

Selling, leasing, and donating horses;

Rescues, retirement farms, sanctuaries, shelters, and adoption websites;

Gelding clinics, subsidies, and grants;

Hay/feed subsidies;

Encouraging responsible breeding;

Subsidized and humane euthanasia and disposal; and

A volunteer network to try to optimize services when people don't qualify for other, services.

There is an available tax check-off in some states to support these kinds of programs, and a virtual guarantee that other groups will come forward to run similar programs, should the need arise.

Third, the claim that domestic horse slaughter is the "humane option" has repeatedly proven to be false.

- USDA inspectors cannot "guarantee a humane process." As explained recently by horse veterinarian and former FSIS inspector Lester Friedlander, horses' physical conformation and skittish nature, which differentiates them from traditional food animals, makes it difficult for slaughterhouse workers to effectively stun horses with a single shot. 5 Friedlander cited numerous examples of horses being shot "up to seven or eight times" before being rendered unconscious.
- USDA is aware of and has documented appalling cruelty at the last three domestic horse slaughter plants in Texas and Illinois, including gruesome descriptions and photographs of the mistreatment inherent in horse slaughter.<sup>6</sup>
- There is no evidence to support the claim that horses slaughtered domestically will travel fewer miles than those slaughtered abroad. Kill-buyers typically contract with slaughter facilities to provide a certain quota of horses and meet these quotas without regard to the original location of the horses. Valley Meat has publicly stated that it plans on obtaining horses from auctions in Texas that are at least 500 miles, thus subjecting the horses to a grueling journey. Nor is there any possible way for Valley Meat to stem the tide of horses

&lt;sup>6</sup> See, e.g., USDA, Food Safety & Inspection Service, Noncompliance Record No. 0019-2005-8243 (Apr. 13, 2005); Noncompliance Record Nos. 00 18-2005-8243 (Apr. 4, 2005) ("Nine horses were overcrowded in the alleyway causing undue excitement which was further exacerbated when two more employees from the kill floor began yelling and hitting these horses causing the one in the end of the line to slip and fall."); 0013-2006-8243 (Oct. 9, 2006) ("horse was down",..." in the upper middle compartment of a pot bellied trailer" and "[o]ther horses within the compartment were trampling the downed horse"); 0006-2007-8243 (Jan. 24, 2007) ("two downed horses being trampled upon by the other horses as well as the front horse being kicked with the hind feet from another horse"); Press Release, Animals' Angels (Nov. 2008), http://www.kaufmanzoning.net/nov24/pressrelease.pdf; see also Mary Nash's Horse Meat Website, http://www.kaufmanzoning.net/foia.htm (providing for download USDA documents describing and depicting regulatory violations, mistreatment, and cruelty).

going over our borders, so it is certainly not a solution to the problems caused by long; transport.

 Slaughter often increases abuse and abandonment (as opposed to providing a humane alternative), such as when kill-buyers dump horses that are unfit for slaughter.

The claims of the Bureau are inflammatory and untrue. The true facts, as presented in this letter, demonstrate that authorizing Valley Meat to slaughter horses is contraindicated on every level. In light of the foregoing, we request that USDA deny Valley Meat's application for inspection.

Very truly yours,

Bruce A. Wagman

Humane Alternatives to Horse Slaughter

Not every horse going to slaughter needs to be rescued. USDA determined that 92.3% of horses sent to slaughter are in good condition, so the vast majority of American horses sent to slaughter would be able to live productive lives if given the opportunity. These horses could be sold, donated, or otherwise rehomed; however, slaughter buyers regularly attend and outbid legitimate horse owners and rescues at auctions. Using USDA's own finding, when horse slaughter is prohibited, less than 1% of the entire horse population may require the help of rescues or euthanasia.

Many humane options are available to an owner looking to rehome a horse:

- Sell to a Vetted, Private Owner. An owner can begin by inquiring with their personal contacts veterinarians, farriers, friends, family, co-workers. Adoption websites like Petfinder.com and TheHorse.com are also available.
- Lease to Another Horse Enthusiast. Leasing typically involves the lessee paying a portion of the horse's monthly board expenses in exchange for spending time with the horse. Leasing is a great way to relieve financial strain without giving up the horse.
- Donate to a Therapeutic Program or a Mounted Police Unit. More than 500 organizations across the country accept donated horses for use in various programs that benefit communities—including therapeutic riding centers for inner city kids, mentally disabled individuals, or mental trauma victims, police department mounted units, prison programs, veteran therapy programs, university riding programs, or similar programs.
- Horse Rescues, Retirement Farms, Sanctuaries, Animal Shelters, and Adoption Websites. There are nearly 700 U.S. horse rescues and sanctuaries that take in horses with the intention of adopting them out to new homes or providing a lifetime of care. The Homes for Horses Coalition is a group of horse rescues and professionals actively working to provide care and homes to horses in need and promote responsible horse ownership.
- Responsible Breeders. The Humane Society of the United States formed the Responsible Horse Breeders Council, composed of breeders that will take back any horse they have bred who becomes homeless or is at risk for slaughter. Some breeds also maintain databases for owners who want to be contacted if a horse they've owned or bred needs a home. Examples include the AQHA's Full Circle program, USTA's Full Circle program and The Jockey Club's Thoroughbred Connect program.
- Gelding Clinics and Grants. Backyard breeding and overbreeding are serious problems. Allowing slaughter to continue encourages irresponsible breeding practices. Horse reproduction rarely occurs by accident these are large, manageable animals we are able to control their numbers. Gelding clinics and grants (such as Front Range Equine Rescue's "Stop the Backyard Breeder" program) are available to provide free or low cost geldings. Limiting horse breeding saves lives.
- Humane Euthanasia. Very few horses may require it, but humane euthanasia is a ready option. The cost of humane euthanasia and carcass removal is equal to or less than one month's care in most parts of the country and is a part of responsible horse ownership. Companies throughout the country offer equine crematory services and rendering/carcass disposal services that will remove deceased horses from an owner's property. Euthanasia clinics and grants (such as Front Range Equine Rescue's national "Trails End" euthanasia grant program) are also available to provide free or low cost euthanasia.

Feed Assistance

California

Sonoma Action for Equine Rescue provides assistance for individuals with horses in Sonoma, Lake, and Mendocino Counties.

Colorado

The Hay Bank assists individuals with horses in financial difficulty with equine feed.

Georgia

Georgia Equine Rescue League offers financial assistance in feeding horses seized by the state Department of Agriculture via its Feed A Horse program.

Stamp Out Starvation (S.O.S.) of Horses maintains a hay bank and works to provide short-term assistance for families with horses.

Kentucky

Funded through the Kentucky Horse Council's SOHO (Save Our Horses Fund), the Equine Safety Net feeds horses for a month when the owner has had an unexpected loss of job, or a medical emergency that reduces their income. KHC also provides financial support for feeding Kentucky horses when they are confiscated by county officials.

Mountain View Rescue of Columbia maintains a hay bank to help feed needy horses.

Michigan

Michigan Horse Welfare Coalition maintains a hay bank available to individuals and law enforcement.

New Mexico

The Equine Protection Fund provides feed assistance for up to four equines for up to two months for families suffering a loss of income or because of a medical situation within six months of  $\frac{1}{2}$ , application for assistance.

Oregon

The Oregon Hay Bank offers feed for families with horses in temporary financial need.

Gelding Assistance

California

Horse Plus Humane Society partially subsidizes gelding services for individuals.

Colorado

Colorado Unwanted Horse Alliance makes grants to help provide education and support to horse owners who may want to geld their horses but lack the money or resources to do so.

Front Range Equine Rescue's Stop the Backyard Breeder program offers partial reimbursement to individuals to geld stallions and colts.

Georgia

Georgia Equine Rescue League underwrites castration procedures via its Stallion to Gelding Support program.

Stamp Out Starvation of Horses sponsors gelding clinics that offer low cost castration of stallions and colts.

Kentucky

Funded through the Kentucky Horse Council's SOHO (Save Our Horses Fund), KHC provides financial support for the Geld Voucher Program.

Minnesota

The Minnesota Horse Welfare Coalition sponsors low-cost gelding clinics in coordination with professors and students from the University of Minnesota Veterinary School.

New Mexico

The Equine Protection Fund provides gelding assistance to the horses of individuals or horse shelters in New Mexico.

Oregon

The Oregon Hay Bank offers financial assistance to geld stallions and colts.

Nationwide

National Equine Resource Network's Gelding Fund sponsors frequent low-cost gelding clinics at various locations on the West Coast.

One Horse at a Time provides grant funding nationally for individuals and equine rescues for a variety of services but most prominently gelding.

The Unwanted Horse Coalition (UHC) has initiated Operation Gelding. The new UHC program will provide funds and materials to assist organizations, associations and events that wish to sponsor clinics in which horse owners can bring their stallions to be castrated. A number of associations have sponsored such clinics, and the UHC wants to help more organizations, associations and events get involved in this effort.

This initiative is made possible by a special gift from the American Association of Equine Practitioners Foundation and the UHC; both organizations have donated seed money to get the program started. Operation Gelding is patterned after several initiatives undertaken by horse associations, organizations and events around the country.

The UHC will provide information and forms necessary to conduct a clinic, along with seed money to defray the costs. Funds of $50 per horse gelded with a $1,000 maximum will be awarded to groups once a year. Assistance will be awarded on a first-come, first-served basis, subject to available resources. Organizations can apply by filling out the Operation Gelding Funding Form provided by the UHC. Funds will be awarded once the clinic is complete and a veterinary statement is provided. With the inauguration of Operation Gelding, the UHC will become more directly involved in helping horses.

Any organization, association or event can participate in the UHC's Operation Gelding program. The UHC wants to involve as many groups as possible.

For more information about conducting a clinic and how to get involved in this program, please contact UHC Director Ericka Caslin at ecaslin@horsecouncil.org or 202-296-4031.

Euthanasia Assistance

California

Horse Plus Humane Society sponsors monthly free euthanasia clinics to relieve suffering horses.

Colorado

Colorado Unwanted Horse Alliance grants support the provision of humane end-of-life options for unadoptable, unhealthy horses in an effort to help reduce the cases of abandonment, abuse, and neglect by connecting horse owners to resources they weren't aware of or couldn't afford.

New Mexico

The Equine Protection Fund provides subsidized euthanasia assistance to equines of individuals, law enforcement agencies who have seized equines, and equine shelters.

Georgia

Stamp Out Starvation of Horses financially assists in cases where humane euthanasia is necessary.

Cruelty Investigation Training

Kentucky

Funded through the Kentucky Horse Council's SOHO (Save Our Horses Fund), the KHC Provides Livestock Investigation education for Animal Control Agencies and local county officials.

New Mexico

APNM underwrites National Animal Control Association training, and has organized extensive training and provided a Field Guide, in conjunction with the Department of Public Safety, for animal cruelty investigations, including for horses. 6,000 Field Guides were produced and distributed to every law enforcement agency in the state.

Veterinary Care Assistance

Kentucky

Funded through the Kentucky Horse Council's SOHO (Save Our Horses Fund), the KHC provides veterinary care when they are confiscated by county officials.

New Mexico

The Equine Protection Fund provides veterinary assistance (both general veterinary care and euthanasia) for horses seized by law enforcement officials.

Oregon

The Oregon Hay Bank offers financial assistance for veterinary case including deworming, dental care, and hoof care.

Public Education and Information.

Kentucky

KHC produced a Public Service Announcement about horse welfare and proper care.

New Mexico

APNM produced and has available a Public Service Announcement about horse welfare and proper care. APNM also produced and distributes a bilingual Equine Care Guide.

Equine Shelter/Rescue Support

Kentucky ·

Funded through the Kentucky Horse Council's SOHO (Save Our Horses Fund), the KHC provides financial support for transportation & Coggins tests when horses are signed over to a qualified equine rescue.

New Mexico

The Equine Protection Fund provides veterinary care (gelding, general veterinary care and euthanasia) to horse shelters in New Mexico.

Disaster Response Assistance

Kentucky

Funded through the Kentucky Horse Council's SOHO (Save Our Horses Fund), the KHC supports the Kentucky Large Animal Emergency Rescue, a volunteer effort which rescues horses, who have been involved in trailer accidents, fall into ravines, get stuck in mud, and other emergency situations.

New Mexico

Animal Protection of New Mexico is actively engaged in ESF-11 Emergency Preparedness efforts in conjunction with the NM Department of Homeland Security and Emergency Management. APNM is developing a comprehensive Emergency Resource Manual organized by county, to supplement its statewide Animal Resources Guide (http://www.apnm.org/publications/nmarg/index.php).

Nationwide

NetPosse.com maintains a national alert system for horses and other animals displaced by disasters.

U.S. Equestrian Foundation's Disaster Relief Fund is a permanent fund to distribute charitable assistance in disaster situations.

Equine Adoption Databases

Colorado

Equidopt is the Colorado Horse Adoption Database hosted by the Colorado Unwanted Horse Alliance. Within the database you can find listings of horses that are available for adoption from the many horse rescues in Colorado: If you see a horse you are interested in, click on the "read more" section to learn more about the horse and to find out which horse rescue the horse is with. There is a link to the website of the horse rescue so you can begin the process of adoption.

Equine Training Programs.

Colorado

One of the largest problems horse rescues face is that many of the healthy horses that come to them are untrained youngsters. Not many people want to adopt an untrained horse, so with CUHA's training grants, the rescues can help move horses into new homes.

Ideas for Funding

- Equine License Plate sales to go directly into a Fund for horse welfare programs (Kentucky sells a plate whose sales benefit the Horse Council, which then funds assistance programs). http://www.kentuckyhorse.org/license-plate-video/. In NM we'd advocate instead for the funds to go directly into a Fund, either at the LSB, NMDA or even the NM Community Foundation's Equine Protection Fund
- Voluntary Tax Check-off programs like the one begun in Colorado in 2011 provide a source of revenue for horse shelters without raising taxes. More information is available on the website of the Colorado Unwanted Horse Alliance (www.counwantedhorse.org). Colorado's program brought in $88,000 in 2011.
